International Corporate Governance Study Tour

New York, USA
Background

Hawkamah, the Institute for Corporate Governance, works to bridge the corporate governance gap in the region. In advancing this mission, we have realized the need to create cross-cultural linkages between our region and other markets in order for board members, practitioners and regulators to learn from each other.

Hawkamah launched the international study tour three years ago to support aspiring, promising, and current regional corporate leaders build their networks of like-minded corporate governance reformers.

The first international study tour was organized in 2015 for New York City where participants met with directors and thought leaders from FSVC, New York Stock Exchange, FDIC, Federal Reserve Bank of New York, Bloomberg Financial, Millstein Centre for Global markets & Corporate Ownership, 30% Club.

This year’s study tour takes us back to New York City with a primary aim of exposing participants to global boards, capital market regulators, and international institutions that are re-shaping the global corporate governance debates and board practices.

“The tour has equipped us with practical tools to pave our way to the boardroom” – Naila Al Moosawi, Director Human Resources-Eastern Gulf & Director L & D – GCC, Lafarge GCC
What to Expect

Hawkamah is organizing a packed one-week set of meetings in New York City. Some of the organizations we are reaching out to include The Conference Board, NASDAQ, New York Stock Exchange, Columbia University’s Millstein, United Nations Principles for Responsible Investing, Morgan Stanley, Financial Services Volunteer Corps, and others.

Hawkamah will provide you with a briefing book containing relevant articles on corporate governance developments and some background on the institutions and individuals you will be meeting.

On top of the meeting arrangements, content, and logistics, your fee includes hotel accommodations (with breakfast) in New York City and ground transportation to the meetings. You will be responsible for your visa and travel costs.

Your registration also entitles you to a one-year individual membership of Hawkamah, enabling you discounted access to Hawkamah’s corporate governance related events and director development programs; subscription to the bi-annual Hawkamah Journal, the pre-eminent, easy-to-read, and practical publication produced by Hawkamah distributed exclusive to its members; and numerous networking and policy exposure opportunities that drive the regional corporate governance agenda.

“Great opportunity to understand how boards work in the U.K and France. Good overview on corporate governance” – Dr. Nadia Qassim Bastaki, Vice President of Medical Services and CSR Strategy of Etihad Aviation Group
